Care Services

Dementia Nursing Care

Dementia nursing care is typically for those who require more intensive support and monitoring from medically trained professionals.

Led by registered mental health nurses who specialise in dementia care, our team is qualified to assess and monitor residents' changing needs, responding to developments in line with their established care plans and best practices.

We work closely with our residents, their loved ones and medical team to best support their physical and psychological needs, enabling us to tailor our approach to each individual; promoting choice, dignity and respect.
